

KEYROCK RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

Keyrock is a long/short equity hedge fund headquartered in Hong Kong and with an office in Japan. Our vision is to build a world-class investment firm focused on emerging growth companies across Asia. We are young, hungry, and always looking to learn. Come see if you fit in!

The role is to help Keyrock investigate potential investment opportunities in Vietnam. This will involve research on companies, industries, and entrepreneurs in the region. The candidate should possess excellent communication, analytical, and organizational skills. Keyrock focuses on the technology, real estate, financial and consumer sectors.

This role is available as both a full-time position and as an internship. Current university students and recent graduates are welcome to apply. Compensation will be highly competitive.

Fluent oral and written English language ability is a requirement. Native oral and written Vietnamese language ability is also required, especially in business settings.

Responsibilities include:

- Gathering insights on investment opportunities and portfolio companies. Taking detailed, organized and meticulous notes will be a critical part of the role.
- Conducting primary reference call interviews with industry experts, former company executives, competitors, distributors and other supply chain participants.
- Communicating with Keyrock's third-party vendors to select industry experts and setup reference calls/meetings.
- Performing desktop research on companies/industries by utilizing publicly available and internal resources.
- Translating documents and assisting investment staff in communicating with local management teams & industry experts.
- Proficiency in MS Office & Excel.
